When the Creeps Came

[Copyright, 1904, by C. B. Lewis.] I had purchased for half its value what had been known for ten years as a haunted house, and on the day the deeds were delivered to me I made arrangements to pass the night in the place, and I was there at an early evening bour.

To bogin with, the garret was the length and width of the house without a partition, as was also the case with the cellar. I began reading a novel I had selected, and thus put in the time until 11 o'clock, but even as I read I had a nervous, uneasy feeling. This so grew upon me that I 1904. finally laid aside the book and passed out of the back door. I remained until Fakumen railway, which would deprive I had smoked a clgar, and then feelthe South Manchurian railway of half ing more quiet I re-entered the kitchen. As I opened the door I found the room in darkness. I had left a bright light on the table, and there was not draught enough to flare a candle. I stood for a moment undecided, having no feeling but of surprise, and of a sudden I heard soft footsteps retreating into the sitting room. It was the echo of slippered feet or one walk ing on tiptoe, and I traced their progress for a distance of twenty feet.

When I could no longer bear them I struck a match and relighted the lamp, noticing that the chimney was still a little warm and that the wick had not been turned down. Although my heart was benting like a hammer and my hair curling, I took up the lamp and went through every room in the house, finding nothing, of course, After returning to the kitchen I lighted two of the candles and placed them in the lower rooms and then forced myself to sit down.

I was trying to argue things out when a noise like the humming of a telegraph wire came from the hall and was speedily followed by a wall and a sobbing. It was like a child crying Miss Emma Raymore has a consin, out in distress, and it lasted fully thirmy throat was so dry that I could not have made a loud sound, but I passed through the rooms into the hall and upstairs again. So upset was I that down three different times, and my feet dragged after me as I walked through the lower hall.

When he was informed of the vote on the question all my life I never saw a man more broken up. He had heard the wailing were called to South Woodbury to attend the funeral of Mrs. Bruce's sister, of Superintendent Kelsey's removal, the with his lighted lump. Soon after midnight, as he sat by the kitchen table, he had caught the sounds of footsteps on the cellar stairs. He plainly heard the footsteps take every stair in rotation until the top, only a few feet to his left, was reached, and then the tightly closed door swung softly open. He was looking full at it when it did so. There was a minute of deepest silence, and then the lamp at his elbow was suddenly turned out. For a few seconds the man could not move a finger, and though he had seen no one he fully expected to be struck or stabbed. Then be made a rush for the outer door, banged it to behind him

AN ELECTION PRIMER

Pertinent Points About Our Election Machinery For New Voters and Old

THE PROHIBITION PARTY.

When was the national Prohibition party organized? Sept. 1, 1869, in Chicago. In 1872 a national ticket was nominated, James Black of Pennsylvania being the candidate for president.

What is the largest vote ever polled by the Prohibitionists? That of 1892, when John Bidwell of California received 264,133 votes for president.

Name the Prohibition presidential candidates since James Black.

Green Clay Smith, Kentucky, 1876; Neal Dow, Maine, 1880; John P. St. John, Kansas, 1884; Clinton B. Fisk, New Jersey, 1888; John Bidwell, California, 1892; Joshua Levering, Maryland, 1896; John G. Woolley, Illinois, 1900; Silas C. Swallow, Pennsylvania,

What was Swallow's vote?

258,536. This was an increase of 50,000 over Woolley's vote.

State briefly what the Prohibition party chiefly stands for.

The following is a part of the Prohibition platform of 1892: "The liquor traffic is a foe to civilization, the arch enemy of popular government and a public nuisance. It is the citadel of the forces that corrupt politics, promote poverty and crime, degrade the nation's home life, thwart the will of the people and deliver our country into the hands of rapacious class interests. All laws that under the guise of regulation legalize and protect this traffic or make the government share in its ill gotten gains are 'vicious in principle and powerless as a remedy.' We declare anew for the entire suppression of the manufacture, sale, importation, exportation and transportation of alcoholic liquors as a beverage by federal and state legislation."

WHAT HE WENT AFTER.

The Office Boy Gave the Business Caller Some Information.

The big bell in the city hall tower had just banged forth the noon hour. and the office buildings were emptying throngs of workers into the streets to fill the lunchrooms. In an elaborate office, seated in a large chair, with his feet comfortably resting on the edge of the manager's desk, was Plugsy, the office boy of Janworth & Co., brokers, says Lippinon one side, and with evident relish he was puffing a huge cigar which his employer had neglected to finish. Suddenly the door opened, and Mr. Whiff, a client of the firm, rushed in.

EYESTONES.

Most Genuine Specimens Found In the Province of Astrakhan. The collection of eyestones is a dying industry. In New York the principal sources of supply are sailors who touch the Baltic sea, and, as might be imagined, the supply is precarious. Eyestones are analogous in some respects to bezoars, as they are a concretion found in the stomach of the European crawfish. Most of the genuine eyestones, crabs' eyes, crabstones cott's Magazine. His head was cocked or Lapilli cancrorum, are procured in the province of Astrakhan, in European Russin.

There appears to be some confusion regarding the nature of the eyestone. for some authorities speak of it as a concretion in the stomach of a certain crab and others as of a peculiar shell formation which is separated from the crab at the time it sheds its shell.

The so called crab's eyes are found fully developed at the end of summer. as the crabs begin to shed their shells. It is noted that these concretions are ing to smile at my own fears, when a clanged below, and Plugsy leisurely absorbed into the stomach of the crab during the shedding season and there "Gee," he said thoughtfully, "people pulverized and absorbed, the dissolved do git skeered o' them fire carts, all calcareous substance being used, it is right, all right!"
